

Enforcement of Board Orders

Orders of the Board may be enforced by any party, or the Board, filing a petition with the Washington Superior Court or the superior court in the county in which the action before the Board originated.¹ The superior court, after hearing, shall incorporate the Board order as the judgment of the court if: 1) the court determines that the Board had jurisdiction over the matter and a timely appeal was not filed; 2) an appeal was timely filed and a stay of the Board order or any part of it was not granted; or 3) the Board order was affirmed on appeal in pertinent part by the Supreme Court.²

There is no appeal from the superior court judgment except that a judgment reversing a Board decision on jurisdiction may be appealed to the Supreme Court.³
